To Be Finished October 25, Contractor Constant Announces

Three hundred barrels of Okay cement—product of Arkansas' first cement plant, at Okay—came in today for local paving construction on the North and South Side improvement districts.

C. S. Constant, of C. S. Constant & Co., contractors for nearly 100 blocks of new paving in Hope, announced this morning that the concrete base on South Main street, connecting the present paving with the Lewisville gravel highway, would be finished at noon Friday. Laying of asphalt will start October 7, and will be finished October 25, it is expected.

Progress on North Side

On the North Side, which is the largest of the two districts, the construction crews will finish curb and gutter work in the next 10 days, after which the laying of concrete base will begin.

Use of Okay cement is local paving work is of special interest as Hope will send many visitors to the formal opening of the Arkansas plant, at Okay, next Wednesday, October 2.

Hope has sent delegations to inspect the Okay plant several times during the spring and summer, but this time the cement company will be giving the party, and invitations have been broadcast to all parts of the state by the sales manager, D. M. Pinkston, in the Wallace building, Little Rock.

Opening at Okay

Mr. Pinkston wrote to the Editor of the Star:

"On Wednesday, October 2, we are holding the opening of our new plant at Okay, Ark.

"Those living in Little Rock and vicinity are asking to accompany us on a special train, leaving here at 7 a. m., and in the event you are in this vicinity and could arrange to be here on that date to accompany us, we would be highly pleased to have you."

Hope visitors to Okay next Wednesday will in all probability drive through in automobiles. The Hope Boys Band has been invited to furnish music at the formal opening, and the boys will be accompanied by a large delegation of business men.

First Bermuda Railway Is Nearing Completion

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 26.—The first railway to be constructed on these islands is now well advanced and it is expected that trains will be run on the Somerset-Hamilton branch in the early spring.

The road is but 24 miles in length but the right of way has cost the British stockholders more money than any similar short-distance road. As high as $15,000 has been paid for a strip of land through certain properties. The total cost of the right of way is estimated at $100,000.

River Transport Starts Fight On Ouachita Bridge

Height of Felenthal Span Raised To 50 Feet Above High Water.

DRAW BRIDGE ASKED

Camden Saves Exception As Plans Are Sent To Washington.

EL DORADO, Sept. 16.—A public hearing on the revised plans of the proposed bridge to span the Ouachita river at Marie Saline Landing, was held at Huttig Tuesday at which time arguments both in favor of and opposing the structure were heard. At the conclusion of the hearing, it was announced that the minutes would be forwarded to the War Department at Washington, where it is thought locally, United States engineers will approve the plans in less than a week.

The hearing required less than an hour yesterday with only short arguments from proponents and opponents of the structure. Captain Edwards H. Dignowity, executive assistant of the engineer's office at Vicksburg, presided, assisted by P. C. Cunningham, associate engineer of Vicksburg; K. R. Young, area engineer of Monroe and Miss Constance M. Shippee, stenographer of the Vicksburg office.

Original Plans Altered

Captain Dignowity announced that the original plans, as presented at a hearing on July 2, were disapproved at Washington because "the department would not approve of plans of a bridge that did not specify a minimum clearance of 50 feet." The new plans call for a 50-foot clearance in extreme high water.

Mr. Cunningham read letters from three opponents of the proposed bridge, the first being from the George E. Breene Lumber company of Monroe which declared that the Breene firm would "positively protest against any bridge over the Ouachita with a fixed span." The letter stated that the company is prepared to "enter legal proceedings or resort to any other means in its power to prevent the construction of the bridge."

A letter from Capt. J. N. Ferguson, master and pilot of a government dredge boat, stated that he did not have any objections to the location but that the high water clearance was not sufficient for derrick boats. He recommended a 54-foot span. A letter from Captain L. V. Cooley of the steamer Ouachita, was presented by Luther Ellison, secretary of the Camden Chamber of Commerce, in which the captain said that the proposed clearance is ample for his boat but that it will not be high enough for the big cotton boats of the future. Captain Cooley advocated a draw bridge.

State Ready for Work

Following reading of the letters, Irls G. Hendrick, consulting engineer of the Arkansas State highway commission stated that the present clearance would give the entire channel for navigation. He said that the controversy over the clearance was holding up construction work on the bridge, as the contract was let last month. "The department is anxious," Mr. Hendrick said.

World's Largest Now Shown Here

Edgar Lasetter, who brought in the 1929 world's champion watermelon yesterday, grows them fifteen to a ton!

Approximately his average is shown by the score-card on big melons produced on his farm this year. Earlier in the season he broke the 1928 record with a melon that weighed 148 pounds, and then broke his own record yesterday.

His big melons this year ran as follows:

152 pounds, 148, 149, 137, 132, 130 (three of this weight), 129, 127, 126 (of which he has a dozen or more).

This is believed to be an all-time record for the watermelon industry.

Bank Stick-Ups Run From Gun

Overlook Cashier Until He Opens On Them With Pistol

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Three men bent on robbing the Cheltenham National bank, just over the northern boundary of Philadelphia, were routed by John Brownlee with a pistol. No one was hurt.

The men made their escape, the only loss to the bank being some shattered glass. Nearly $50,000 worth of pay roll money was almost within reach of the would-be robbers.

The three, under the persuasion of pistols, compelled the cashier and paying teller to hold up their hands and they started to clean out the bank. They had over-looked Brownlee and the first indication they had of his presence was when he opened fire, his first shot shattering a pane of glass in a door.

The suddenness of the attack, coming from an unexpected quarter, threw them into a panic and they fled as Brownlee sent more bullets in their direction.

Highway Body Suit Dismissed

Failure of Plaintiff To File Bond As Ordered Is Cause.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 26.—Failure of V. E. Schevenell of Memphis to file the bond required under an act of the special legislature last year resulted in the issuance yesterday of a Chancery Court decree dismissing the suit against the state Highway Commission.

After a hearing August 19, Chancellor Dodge sustained a motion of the commission to require the bond to insure the state against loss. Schevenell was given three days to furnish the bond. It was said that the litigation would affect materially the bids for highway bonds unless it was disposed of.

The attorney for Schevenell has indicated that an appeal to the Arkansas Supreme Court will be taken.

Five Chickens In Exhibit As Judges Ends Competition

Five Grand Champions Announced In Poultry Division

NEVADA IS LEADER

Neighboring County Captures Four of Highest Honors

Judging of the Poultry Show marked this morning's program at the Southwest Arkansas Fair, which is piling up an all-time record for attendance in the southwestern counties. Cars are closely parked in and near the grounds, and this morning's turn-out looked like an average night's attendance.

The Poultry Show drew 412 birds, comprising the largest exhibit in the state with the exception of the State Fair. Housed in the lower part of the grandstand on the track, this is one of the most interesting sections of the Fair.

Some Fine Poultry

There are scores of prize-winning birds of standard strains, stocky white and barred Plymouth Rocks; and slim, graceful white leghorns; Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons and others. One of the sensations of the show is a pen of Rhode Island Red Silkies, a strange kind of chicken with hair instead of feathers, with almost no plumage, and utterly unable to fly. This pen, owned by Mrs. R. L. Sanford, of Bradford, Ark., was bred from standard Rhode Islands, according to the announcement at the time the entry was offered to the Fair.

Other strange manner of poultry appears in the form of Japanese Silkies, grotesque little chickens with huge feathered eye-brows and no tails; Seabright Bantams, with fight in their eye; Cornish Game, and Buff Cochins.

Nevada county, territory of Hope's neighboring city of Prescott has the largest exhibit, with Hampstead county second, and birds entered in large numbers from as far away as Bowie county, Texas, beyond Texarkana.

Grand Champions

The grand champions announced this morning were as follows:

Buff Orpington, Pen—H. E. Thornton, Prescott.

White Orpington, Cock—Frank Grayson, Prescott.

White Orpington, Hqn—Frank Grayson, Prescott.

The Innocent Cheat

by Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL - POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Helen Page feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with her handsome guardian, Leonard Brent. But he represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly.
Brent changes all his plans for Helen's future after a chance meeting with a dying beggar, Charles Owens Nellin, who tells a strange story which Brent is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.
On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to reveal her parentage and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, Cyril K. Cunningham, and that he promised her parents to take her to him when she was 18. They go to Yonkers and Brent introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He offers as proof of the picture of Cunningham which he had taken from the dying Nellin.
Helen remains at Bramblewood while the lawyer investigates the story. Cunningham presents her with a car which she drives everywhere. One day she accidentally strikes a girl, Eva Ennis, who has to be taken to the hospital. Eva's brother, Robert, upbraids Helen for her selfish recklessness and then, noting her unstrung condition, offers to drive her home. Cunningham receives him graciously and invites him to spend the evening. The young couple go for a canoe ride.
Next day Brent arrives and when he hears about her meeting with Robert asks her to go to New York for dinner and the theatre. Coming home that night he kisses Helen for the first time and tells her that he loves her. Cunningham gives an old-fashioned party in honor of Helen's 19th birthday, and Brent finds a locket on the floor which proves to be similar to Helen's.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI
Quickly Brent sought Helen and begged her to dance with him.
"Why are you wearing your mother's locket?" he asked at once when they were whirling around.
Helen was impressed with the seriousness of his tone. "Why, Leno dear," she said, "haven't you noticed that all the girls are wearing old-fashioned locket because it belongs with my dress."
"But you might lose it," Brent cautioned her.

Helen put up a hand to feel of the locket. "The clasp is firm," she said.
"It's the only photograph of your mother that you have, isn't it?" Brent questioned.
"There was one in her room," Helen replied; "a lovely picture, Leno. She must have been a beautiful girl."
"Like you dear," he smiled at her. "Did you find a picture of your father too?" he added lightly.
"Yes."
"Seems strange your grandfather

Why are you wearing your mother's locket?" he asked.
"You might lose it."
er permitted it to remain in your mother's possession, doesn't it?"
"I don't think he touched anything in her room after she went away."
"I see. Will you show me the picture? I'd like to see a photo-

Observe 71st Wedding Anniversary

They have just celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary—and they're looking forward to many more. Above are Mr. and Mrs. David Wesley Davis of Mobile, Ala., who were married Sept. 9, 1858, at Brooklyn, Ind. He is 95, she is 90.

Brent put it in his pocket, and his fortune. It came to him as a great surprise as it was to her. He did not go to her at once, but her eyes constantly sought him wearing it and claim it, and there by start an investigation that might lead to exposure of Helen as an imposter.
They finished the dance, waltzing to the immortal strains of the Blue Danube, and Helen went about the duties imposed upon her by her role of hostess.
The party was a huge success. The girls got their kick out of acting demure and the boys enjoyed themselves wondering what it would be like if the "femmes" should revert in earnest to the manners and customs of former days.
After that they waited for the real fun to begin. But Mr. Cunningham prevented it. He had come down by great physical effort to assist in welcoming the guests and to hear his house ring once more to the tune of merry laughter, to watch the pretty flirtings of maids as coy—for the moment—at any he had known, and to dream over the past.
A feeling of having made his peace with the world stole over him as the hour to retire to his room drew near. His strength was failing rapidly but he had planned a surprise that he wished to announce at the traditional moment and he did not want to make a change.
His presence held back the desires of his guests. They could not fling aside the spirit that he had called up for the occasion and be their modern selves while he remained downstairs.
No one was so discourteous as to let him suspect that he served as a damper, and when supper time arrived he was convinced that his idea had brought joy to others as well as to himself.
With the assistance of his attendant, Marks, he took his place at the head of the long table in the big dining room and assumed the duties of host with dignity and ease.
Helen was proud of him, proud of the regal distinction that had outlasted his age and illness, proud of his gently aristocratic bearing. And she, as well as the others, was taken wholly by surprise when he got to his feet and told them that he had an important announcement to make.
"My dear friends," he said, with a touch of silver in his voice, "I am grateful for your presence here tonight as the occasion is one that marks a very happy event in my life." He paused and looked at Helen.
She tried to smile back at him but the grip of anticipation held her immovable. What could he be going to say? She knew intuitively that it concerned her, whatever it was.
"You were asked," Mr. Cunningham went on, "to honor Miss Brent on her nineteenth birthday. It gives me great happiness to present her now, not at Helen Brent, but as my dearly beloved granddaughter, Helen Cunningham Nellin."
There was a silence as tense as a drawn bow, followed by a gasp that ran around the table from one guest to another.
Helen herself sat perfectly still, with her eyes dilated and wide with surprise.
Everyone turned to her as though expecting her to answer the unspoken questions that rose in their minds.
Mr. Cunningham held out a hand and she went to stand beside him, his arm about her shoulders.
"My daughter Evangeline's child," he said simply.
As though his words had been a cue to them, his guests broke into an excited but subdued chatter.
Mr. Cunningham bent his head and kissed Helen very gently. Her eyes filled suddenly with tears.
"Thank you," she said in a choked whisper. Then she turned her head to look down to table where Brent sat. There was upon his face an expression that she could not gauge, perhaps because he was desperately trying to conceal his elation and keep his expression inscrutable.
He had not guessed Mr. Cunningham's decision to accept Helen as his granddaughter and heiress to in the city.

"Bob is coming for me," Eva told them, with an appealing glance at Helen.
"Oh" Helen said indifferently, and then added enthusiastically to Brent: "Suppose we go and drive the sun up, Leno?"

Maxwell Suicide Victim Is Report

Chemists Find Poison In Stomach of Dead Convict.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 26.—Chemical analysis of the stomach of Albert Maxwell, prisoner at the penitentiary farm at Tucker, whose alleged suicide two weeks ago by drinking carbolic acid caused his father to request an investigation, showed a quantity of acid sufficient to cause death. Dr. L. E. Gebauer, Little Rock bacteriologist, who made the examination, reported to the state Penitentiary Commission yesterday.
Walter Maxwell, the father, told Lonoke county officials he had been informed that his son was beaten severely a few days before his death because he could not pick the required amount of cotton. The father asked that a post mortem examination be made to determine the cause of death.
Subsequently the father apparently abandoned his demand for an investigation and notified an undertaker at England, where the body was being held, to bury it in the potter's field because he could not raise $100 required to send the body to Searcy county, the prisoner's former home.

The Penitentiary Commission, which offered to pay costs of the postmortem examination, halted burial plans and ordered that the postmortem be conducted.

The local church was making a drive for funds, and two colored sisters were calling on Uncle Rastus.
"I can't give nothin'," exclaimed the old negro. "I owes everybody in this here town now."
"But," said one of the collectors, "don't you think you owe the Lord something too?"
"I does, sister, indeed," said the old man, "but He ain't pushing me like the other creditors is."

"Hey, you!" yelled the traffic officer at the amorous driver, "why don't you use both hands?"
"I'm afraid to let go the steering wheel!" grinned the irrepressible youth at the wheel.

doleful Tragedy of a young Lady of Seventeen

MARY JANE was in tears.
"... and Grandma didn't hear the telephone," she sobbed.
"Not even when Jimmy called the second time! So Jimmy asked Helen Parks instead, and ... and ... now she's going to the dance with him."
"And, no—nobody else has asked me!"
The tragedies of seventeen are dark and bitter. Disconsolate, Mary Jane buried her face in a pillow.
Mr. Mason looked down at the forlorn little figure on the couch sympathetically.
"You know," he said to his wife, "Grandma really doesn't hear as well as she used to. She needs an extension telephone in her room. I think I'll order one tomorrow."

Telephones where you need them can often prevent youthful woes—and be a source of pleasure to old folks, besides. They save time, patience, steps.
Few know that one or two additional instruments cost considerably less than the single telephone they now have!
By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, and perhaps a rearrangement of the equipment you already have, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of your telephone service.

The Umpire Called Him Out

Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, who died yesterday from influenza and complications. A picturesque and colorful figure in the world of sports, he stood up to the plate swinging when Death hurled the final strike and the Great Umpire called him out.

Babe's New Stance

Babe Ruth has changed his stance at the plate, but if he made the switch to avoid hitting home runs, the move has been a failure. The big boy confides that for the last couple of weeks he has been experimenting with different stances and has found one that combines business with pleasure—he gets the homers without as great an effort as of yore.

Babe's new address brings his right foot well forward and almost on the plate. When he brings his body around he swings that foot—steps into the bucket, almost—and there it goes!

Saving Himself

The Babe is not the old wild lad of four years ago. He's beginning to discover that bodies are subject to wear and tear. This year his back and legs have been giving him trouble and for weeks he was away from the diamond. That's why he has been trying to find a way to make the long clouts roll off more easily. The new stance, he says, saves his back and legs.

He's going to try to lease that back and those legs to Colonel Ruppert for $100,000 for the season of 1930, and Colonel Ruppert doesn't want any lame livestock on his hands.

At any rate, since changing his stance, Babe has been sending balls out of the park with greater frequency than ever. In this he has been aided by the fact that a number of teams are trying out rookie pitchers who don't know Mr.

There and there the magnates are beginning to look over their ball teams, discover they are pretty far down in the pennant race and begin to wonder how they ever happened to put up with such managers for so long. It is a season when rumors fly—Donie Bush drops in to see a ball game in Cincy and at once he's chosen for Jack Hendricks' job; Muddy Ruel is to replace Howley at the helm of the Browns; Dan Howley is going to Brooklyn where Steve McKeever says that at last Uncle Robbie must go; seven men from Texas and a couple of guys from the coast are going to manage the Chicago White Sox, and who will manage the Braves, if any?

A number of posts for next year are settled. In the American League Mack, Huggins, Peckinpauge, Harris and Bill Carrigan will stay. Walter Johnson could stay at Washington, but he may retire because of ill health. That leaves jobs open at Chicago and St. Louis and perhaps Washington.

The Line Forms on the Right

In the National League McCarthy, Ems, McGraw, McKechnie and Shotton aren't worrying about their meal tickets. The changes, except for Philadelphia, will come in the second division. It's just possible Uncle Robbie may be through at Brooklyn, though this remains to be seen. Jack Hendricks is due to be eased out. Lena Blackburne of the White Sox has his hind on the gate.

Judge Fuchs has been trying to give himself the air at Boston for some time without success. There ought to be some arrangement in Boston whereby Bill Carrigan could manage both teams. He seems to understand the elements of making people love cellar baseball.

Barons Win Opening Game, 1 to 0, by a Double Steal

Bill Ludolph Is Winner In A Sensational Pitching Duel With George Connally of Dallas—Limits the Steers to Two Hits.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 26.—(AP)—John Dobbs, outgassed and outtricked his opposition in the seventh inning of the opening game of the Dixie series here yesterday and his Birmingham Barons, Southern Association champions, defeated Dallas, Texas League pennant winners, 1 to 0.

The game packed all the thrills that a championship contest between two teams playing brilliant, heads up baseball can carry, with Bill Ludolph of Birmingham and George Connally of Dallas, the star performer in one of the greatest exhibitions of pitching a Dixie series has produced. Ludolph allowed only two hits and Connally three.

But for a brief period of wildness when he gave Moose Clabaugh, Barons outfielder, four wild ones to open the seventh, which led to his defeat, Connally pitched on even terms with Ludolph.

The Winning Run After Clabaugh walked, Wols popped out, but Ernie Smith hit a single to short left field, Clabaugh

Sun-Tan Is The Fashion!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

False modesty is a relic of an ancient prejudice. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cut it away and, in behalf of better health and pure enjoyment, sponsors the fashion of sensible swimming attire.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Joe Guyon, the old Carlisle star, is teaching football at Clemson College, down south, and happy in a pretty little white cottage. . . . It will cost you $6.00 to see a game of the world series from a box in Chicago and $5.50 reserve. . . . Of course you can pay $15 if you want to. . . . Eddie Grancy, old boxer and referee, died out in Frisco the other day. . . . He had a favorite story he used to tell about the bout he refereed between Jeffries and Corbett. . . . Eddie rarely raised his voice in the ring. . . . Once, during the match, while the two were clinched, he said—"Let go, Jim, you're holding," and Jeff turned to him and asked—"Which Jim do you mean, Eddie?" . . . One of the grand old lads of the ring, that Eddie Grancy was . . . and a square shooter.

Ruth so well. It's interesting to watch what kind of greeting the Babe gives the lads just up from the sticks.

rick said, "to start work as soon as possible so that we may take advantage of the remaining good weather."

Adolph Felsenthal of Camden presented his objections to the location and asked that the bridge be constructed at Felsenthal instead of Marie Saline Landing. He said the speaker said that approximately 20,000 more bales of cotton would be shipped to New Orleans from two counties in Arkansas and two parishes in Louisiana, if the bridge were located at Felsenthal. He said the structure at Marie Saline Landing would cost farmers in that section $80,000 yearly.

O. L. Bodenhamer, speaking for the El Dorado Chamber of Commerce, presented El Dorado's position relative to the bridge. He said that at the last hearing, this city supported the highway department in its contention for a 40-foot span and no objection was raised as to the location. "Today," Mr.

 Bodenhamer said, "we do not oppose nor do we raise any objection to the bridge. We desire to be placed on record as being favorable both to the location and the height of the proposed structure."

In reply to Mr. Bodenhamer, Luther Ellison of Camden said that his organization had agreed to the 50-foot span at the hearing on the Calion bridge at El Dorado but they "know that a turn or draw bridge is the proper type to build."

He said the proposed structure would stifle navigation and that barges are inadequate on the Ouachita because of the turns and curves in the river. "These bridges will be in the way of the larger boats of the future," Mr. Ellison said, "and we want it understood that when the time comes in the future when these bridges interfere with navigation the Camden Chamber of Commerce now reserves the right to go back to the War Department and asked that they be reconstructed to take care of river shipping."

In closing the hearing, Capt. Dig-novity said that the government is always "behind the state highway departments in their plans, as long as they are sound."

El Doradoans who attended the hearing were Mr. Bodenhamer, T.

Machine Age Growth Bans Jobless Fear

BUFFALO, Sept. 26.—The bugaboo of unemployment, threatened by the development of the so-called machine age, was dispelled here by Russell G. Creviston of Chicago, speaking before the National Association of Master Plumbers, who asserted that instead of a wave of unemployment, men are rapidly being absorbed in newly-created industries and in the extension of older ones.

"Any great wave of unemployment," he said, "is impossible because the modern era has created commensurate employment in the luxury group of industries. The automobile business alone has absorbed 750,000 workmen from the basic industries in a period of five years. There will be no less in earning power, in fact, it will be increased as this maligned machine age progresses."

The Women Did the Work in Those Days than 2000 years ago, in the reign of Roman emperors, women plumbers played a dominant role in business life. This fact was disclosed by W. G. Archer of the National Research Bureau, who said of Emperor Hadrian's palace revealed a number of lengths of lead pipe bearing the signature of women plumbers.

Romance Collapses As Sweetheart Is Deported

BUFFALO, Sept. 26.—Romance smuggling has palled on James J. Pfeiffer, 23, who recently was fined $25 and saw his sweetheart deported to Canada.

A love affair cropped up between the youth and a charming colleen Anna Touhey, fresh from the rural districts of Rosecommon County, Ireland. In Quebec, Anna told James she wanted to come to the "land of the free." Pfeiffer smuggled her across on a Lake Erie ferry where the girl was arrested when casually questioned by officers in Buffalo.

Ranchers Complain of Bears Raiding Flocks

SANTE PE, N. M., Sept. 226.
 —Bears are taking a heavy toll from sheep ranchers in the Gal-linas mountains in Rio Arriba county, according to reports made at the state game department here.
 Cornelio Oliveras, rancher of Parkview said 880 sheep have been killed by bears on his ranch alone.

"Sure," said Pat on the morning of his birthday, rubbing his hands together at the prospect of a present, "Of always done me duty and of always mane to do it."
 "I believe you, Pat," said his employer, who was head of a big trust, present of all you have taken from

 "and therefore I shall make you a me during the past year."

Some Motorists Have Their Tires INSPECTED Regularly (—maybe—) (every year!)

I ASKED a man, the other day, if his wife went to church regularly. "Yes, indeed," he replied. "Every Easter."

Reminds me of the average motorist. He has his tires taken off and thoroughly inspected once a year—maybe!

Perhaps it's our fault—for failing to explain the economy of doing this more often.

Motors and other mechanical parts of a car receive frequent adjustments and overhauls.

As for the long-suffering tires—they're usually forgotten except in cases of punctures or blow-outs.

Rims are bent, wheels get out of line, bruises, cracks and cuts develop in the tires—but they're expected to keep on going 'til a ripe old age.

Yet a set of five tires and tubes on a car usually represents an investment of from $50 to $200! Worth some periodic attention, aren't they?

Here's our proposal: Bring in your car. We'll take off all your tires. We'll carefully examine each casing and fix it as necessary to ward off future break-downs. We'll similarly condition your tubes. We'll replace any rusty, wrinkled flaps, remove rust from rims, straighten and graphite them. We'll supply any valve or dust caps and lock nuts that are missing.

Then we'll change about your tires, in replacing them on the wheels. We'll put the best two on the rear, the next best ones on the front, and mount the other as your spare.

We'll test your wheel alignment and advise you if it appears that your brakes need adjusting.

The charge will be only for actual labor and materials and you will find it a mighty good investment. You should, as a result, get enough additional miles of trouble-free service to repay you several times.

If you wish, we'll call you up in four or six months for another thorough "overhaul" of your tires.

Why not have this done at once—it may save you the price of a couple of new tires in the next few months?

A Victory for Camden

THE business men of Camden, fighting to prevent the construction of a low-level bridge across the Ouachita river which would cut off water transportation between that city and Monroe and New Orleans, have scored a decisive victory.

At a public hearing last Tuesday in the little sawmill town of Huttig, Union county, the bridge on which highway No. 2 will cross into East Arkansas was approved as a high-level structure, with 50 feet clearance above high water.

It was not all that Camden asked for. Representing Camden Chamber of Commerce at the hearing, Luther Ellison said: "We know that a turn or draw bridge is the proper type to build. These bridges will be in the way of the larger boats of the future, and we want it understood that when the time comes in the future when these bridges interfere with navigation the Camden Chamber of Commerce now reserves the right to go back to the War Department and ask that they be reconstructed to take care of river shipping."

Mr. Ellison believes that the low, steel barges of today will not find favor with shippers on a winding stream like the Ouachita. He believes—and has considerable support in his belief—that the style in boats will revert to the old, high-decked cotton steamers of Civil War days. The proposed bridge for highway No. 2, near Felsenthal, Union county, will safely pass Capt. Cooley's S. S. Ouachita, the only boat now operating north of Monroe, La., but it might not pass larger boats.

We believe Mr. Ellison is unduly pessimistic over the future of the steel barges. We don't believe, for instance, that the big cotton boats will ever come back. But right or wrong about that, Mr. Ellison and the business men of Camden have put up a gloriously successful fight. They have saved the Ouachita—the greatest of Arkansas' navigable rivers—for actual navigation today, and certainly for the steel-barge lines of tomorrow.

It is interesting to note that among those attending Tuesday's meeting at Huttig was Adolph Felsenthal, Camden merchant who has done more for the cause of river shipping than probably any other Arkansan in the last twenty-five years. Mr. Felsenthal led a congressional lobby two decades ago to persuade the federal government to develop the Ouachita river. Drive down to Locks No. 6 and No. 8 today and see the result.

The federal government has spent close to $9,000,000 making the Ouachita navigable the year around all the way from its junctions with the Red and the Black, to Camden. It brings New Orleans and all-water shipments within sixty miles of Hope.

The State of Arkansas owes a lasting memorial to the vision and persistency of men who have dreamed the dream of water transport with an unflinching courage for twenty-five years.

And it is significant that Camden, which was the most important trading point in South Arkansas long before El Dorado was more than a mere village, should rise in a critical moment to do something fine and permanent for that river traffic upon which the Old South leaned, and to which the New South will sooner or later return.

Must Smoking Stop?

EX-GOVERNOR SMITH'S startling prediction that "some day smoking will be prohibited" is recalled by the entry into the anti-tobacco campaign of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church. The board began its new crusade by an attack on its organ, the Voice, on "the murderous campaign of the American Tobacco trust," which, it was claimed, is now recommending cigarettes to women. The article declared that "these conscienceless baby killers should be given a lesson that will last for the next generation," and went on to tell of 40 babies in one ward of a New York hospital found to be suffering from tobacco heart, quoting an "authority" as saying that "60 per cent of all babies born of cigarette-smoking mothers die before they reach the age of two years, due primarily to nicotine poisoning."

This startling assertion naturally drew the attention of the medical profession and the American Medical Association proceeded to investigate, promptly finding that the "authority" quoted was not a medical man in the proper sense but only a member of an unrecognized cult. The medical records were then searched and nowhere was found any mention of tobacco heart in newborn children. The survey that followed "showed that cigarettes had no apparent effect, one way or the other, on mothers, and that women were no more liable to physical debilitation from smoking than were their husbands and brothers."

Governor Smith may be right in his conclusions concerning a nation-wide ban on smoking, but states that have tried it in the past eventually abandoned the effort as a bad job, impossible of accomplishment. It would be still more difficult now to place a bar against tobacco, with the popularity of the cigarette becoming greater daily.—Tarkana Gazette.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Since the temporary cessation of bloodshed in Palestine, the background of the conflict has begun to piece itself together.

The recent visit of a delegation of Arabs to Secretary of State Stimson especially has focused attention on the deep-seated forces at work, forces which appear too formidable to allow any forecast of a near-future solution of the Palestine problem.

War-time expediency and post-war acquisitiveness have produced a situation where Jews and Arabs are found hating each other and where both have some ground for complaint against the British. The complications seem due to the fact that Britain has in past time promised Palestine both to the Arabs and the Jews and meanwhile has sought to attain certain definite ends of her own. She has been unwilling to repudiate either set of promises and has tried unsuccessfully to keep peace while playing ball with both sides.

Premised an Arab State... After Turkey entered the war the British began to spread revolt among the Arabs under her control. They appear to have promised King Hussein, ruler of the Hedjaz and leader of the Arab movement, that they would recognize the independence of Arabs settled over a wide area, including Palestine, where the population was at least five-sixths Arab. So the Arabs revolted against the Turks in 1916 and joyously aided the British conquest.

The Arab delegation to Washington quoted the first article of the British-Arab agreement, binding Britain to "help in the formation of an Arab Empire completely independent in its internal and foreign affairs" and including Palestine within its stipulated boundaries.

But in 1917, still at war, England made a bid for the support of Jews all over the world when Balfour publicly promised them a national home in Palestine. The League of Nations later granted her a Palestine mandate providing for British co-operation with the Zionist movement in Jewish colonization. In the last 10 years the Jewish population has tripled and there are now about 150,000 Jews in Palestine. Agriculture has been developed and with schools, hospitals and other systems the foundation of a Jewish nation has been laid.

Nevertheless, this Jewish colony has been planted in the midst of a land of hostile Arabs, whose bitterness at the British repudiation increased as the Jews spread out. The Arabs fear the day when the Jews may have a majority of the population and edge them out of the territory they have occupied for many centuries. They demand revocation or the Balfour proclamation, restriction of Jewish immigration and establishment of a representative government.

The Zionists, meanwhile, protest that the British have failed to support the colonization movement with any enthusiasm and have limited immigration unreasonably. They accuse the recent British administration in Palestine of openly favoring the Arabs and protest bitterly because adequate precautions were not taken to save them from the recent mas-

England appears to have her eye primarily on the rich oil fields of Mosul, where American oil companies have a 25 per cent interest. The proposed pipe line system from these fields to the Mediterranean would go through the French mandate of Syria if it took the shortest course, but the British want the pipe line to run out through Iraq and Palestine under her own control.

The Twenty-third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: For Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. (Compiled by the Bible Guild)

EXTERIOR SCENE HELP

"TRIAL OF MARY DUGAN"

When "The Trial of Mary Dugan" comes to the screen of the Saenger theatre Friday as an all-talking picture, with Norma Shearer heading a big special cast of notables, audiences will see a departure from the original stage version.

Bayard Veiller, author of the famous murder drama, personally directed it for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He altered the action of his play so as to incorporate a number of exterior scenes that will run as a prologue to the thrilling courtroom sequences.

"For the purposes of condensing the trial dialogue I told part of the story outside the courtroom," Veiller said. "This did not deviate from the established plot but eliminated considerable preliminary testimony and made the witness chair dialogue more dramatic and intense."

Mrs. Pantages Is Guilty, Jury Says

Women Jurors Weep As Verdict Finding Woman Guilty Is Read.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnate, was convicted of manslaughter Wednesday night by a jury which heard her trial on a charge of second degree murder.

The jury made no recommendation for leniency. The sentence for manslaughter is fixed by California law at from one to ten women jurors wept as the verdict was read.

The jury once returned to the court room to hear read testimony given by witnesses concerning the alleged intoxicated condition of the woman immediately after her automobile had rammed that of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, injuring him. Responsibility for the subsequent death of the Japanese was charged against Mrs. Pantages.

Mrs. Pantages collapsed as the verdict was read, and Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, her physician was summoned. The woman was hysterical and apparently completely unnerved. She was removed from the courtroom to an adjoining room by members of her family where physicians joined her.

Boys and Girls Serve In Directing Traffic

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 26.—The eternal feminine has again assumed a masculine role—that of student traffic officer.

The Boys' Patrol, sponsored by the automobile club here, to direct traffic during the peak hours in school zones, has become extinct. In its stead the Girls' and Boys' Patrol has been organized.

The group is believed to be the only one of its kind in the state. The various patrols of the schools are under the supervision of a member of the Springfield traffic police squad and the members are duly sworn with police powers.
